Hospital gets $700,000 renovation grant

By Janice Harrington

The Mountain View Health Care Centre has been awarded a provincial capitol grant for extensive renovations to the hospital.

News of the $700,000 grant was made last week by the Alberta Minister of Public Works and Supply Ken Kowalski, Alberta Minister of Health Nancy Betkowski and Olds/Didsbury MLA Roy Brasseur.

Mountain View Health Care Centre Administrator Dennis Stabber said the money will be used to upgrade the auxiliary hospital.

"The Adult Day Support program will be expanded and the physio aspect will be moved around," Stabber said. "As a result of the expansion, the education area will also have to be improved."

Improvements will also be made to the hospital's dining room to make it a little more comfortable.

Besides renovations to existing units, the grant will also be used for the creation of a new Cognitively Impaired Unit for the north wing of the hospital.

"We will hopefully be setting up this C.I. unit to try and segregate patients more in terms of the care they need," said Stabber. "It's a different concept. The north wing will be increased so patients can congregate in one unit."

On top of these major changes, Stabber said the money will also be used to make some upgrades to electrical and other building systems to bring them up to code in the 27-year-old hospital.

Cost of these upgrades to the hospital will be entirely covered by the capitol grant. The hospital's capitol budget will be used to cover GST expenses.

Landfill site search continues

By Janice Harrington

The search for a regional landfill site is continuing after Alberta Environment test findings were received by county officials last week.

Assistant Mountain View County Commissioner Tony Martens said the search for a suitable site for a regional landfill will continue despite the finding of Alberta Environment that a possible site near the Mobile Oil Harmattan plant could be used if extensive engineering was done.

"We are still waiting for the official report," said Martens. "But word from the testing said is probably wouldn't pan out because of a lack of clay. It would need a lot of work done before we could use it."

Martens said the testing results, which took nearly a year to return, means the Regional Waste Management Authority will continue its search for an appropriate piece of land within the county to dump waste. This is only the second time a site has gone through the possible landfill testing process in the 2 years since the authority was formed.

Five sites have been considered by the Authority but were discounted before further testing was done.

But despite the fact the Authority will continue to search for more appropriate sites, Martens said the Harmattan site will be kept in mind.

"It's such a long process to go through and we will keep looking but we know that this site could work out so will keep it in mind."

Gift of life

Didsburiens got the chance to give the gift of life last week when the Red Cross came to town. A mobile unit from Calgary set up the donor clinic at the arena to collect blood to be used in hospitals around Alberta and B.C. See the story on page 18.

Fundraising run set

By Janice Harrington

Plans are all in place for the first annual BOP Father's Day 10K race set for June 21.

Race organizer Tracy Block said the course has been laid out, prizes are in place and entertainment is on line for the fundraising run scheduled for early Sunday morning.

"We have had a really good response so far," said Block. "We are really looking forward to having a good time with this."

The race, organized by the Didsbury Build Our Pool Society, will help to raise money for the hot tub and water slide to be added to the new indoor swimming facility. Construction of the pool is expected to begin sometime this summer.

Block said run has been divided into three events to allow as many people as possible to participate. Besides the 10K running event, there is also a 2-person relay (where each partner runs 5K each) and a 5K walk. Entry fees for the race are $20 per person or minimum pledges totalling that amount.

Runners and walkers get either a free T-shirt or baseball cap with their entry fee and are entitled to win a load of prizes donated by race sponsors and local businesses.

"We have close to 45 prizes to be won," said Block. "We got rollerblades, a golf bag, gift certificates; the response from the local businesses has been really good."

Prizes will be awarded to the top 3 finishers in each age category for the 10K run and the 5K walk. The top 3 relay teams in the 5K relay will also win prizes.

A prize for the most pledges will also be given to the top fundraiser 14-years-old and under.

Registration for the race starts Saturday, June 20 at the Didsbury Memorial Complex from 2 to 5 p.m. or Sunday morning at the Didsbury Campground Sunday morning from 8 to 9 a.m. The race begins at 10 a.m.

Block said more runners and volunteers are needed for the event, which will finish up with a public BBQ at the campground. If you would like more information about the race or volunteering, contact Tracy Block at 335-3295, Joyce Shields at 335-2372 or Deanne Trewin at 335-8016.

Petition calls for dog's destruction

By Janice Harrington

A woman savagely attacked by a dog in a Didsbury park last month is circulating a petition asking for the dog's destruction.

Colleen Stangward said she is not satisfied with the fines levied against the dog's owner by a provincial court judge earlier this month and is asking people to sign her petition demanding that the dog be destroyed.

"I have been talking to this lady who has been a breeder for 15 years," Stangward said. "And she said once attack always attack."

Stangward, who moved to Didsbury with her family from Calgary May 1, was attacked while she played with her children in a park near their home late last month. Her small dog, who had been tied to a tree while the family played, was the brunt of the attack from the bull terrier who had escaped from the fenced-in yard of its owner. Stangward said it took the efforts of 2 men and herself to free her dog. Stangward suffered a bit in the attack. Her dog, while badly hurt, is recovering.

"This is the kind of thing you only expect in the city, not here," Stangward said. "It's a shame that we all have to be on guard because the judge went so light."

The owner of the dog was fined $10 for no dog tag, $10 for allowing the dog to run at large and $100 for allowing the dog to bite. Under the town by-law which prohibits dogs to run free outside of their owners property, the fine is $75.

"I feel strongly that people need to be more responsible," Stangward said. "If that dog had a proper fence or had been leashed like it was supposed to be under the town by-law, this wouldn't have happened."

Stangward said she plans to keep circulating the petition and will use it unless the owner voluntarily has the dog put down or sends it out of town.

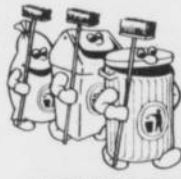

Tree planting

Students at Westglen School turned their profits from black to green last week by planting trees in the west corner of the school yard. Money for the project came from profits at the school's lunch-time concession stand. Pictured are school Principal Henry Petkau, Vice-Principal Wayne Green and employees of Johnson Tree Farms.

OPINIONS/EDITORIAL

Deadly mixture

By Janice Harrington

It's a picture that many of us associate with the horror of war in the Middle East—children holding automatic weapons like they were born with them in their hand.

Children with M-16's, semi-automatic rifles and bazookas, killing and being killed, is something we don't expect to see in our own country, never mind in our own town. Yet similar things are happening in Didsbury.

The guns these children carry are not the armaments of war, but instead they are hunting rifles which belong to their parents or bee-bee guns given as gifts.

And while as yet no child has been killed or even hurt by these small, armed warriors, there is a large and growing concern over the amount of destruction they are doing.

Pets are being found shot, sometimes to death, but many times just close enough to death that they suffer horribly. Animals living around our area, protected by Fish and Wildlife, are being wantonly destroyed through the callousness of these children who have come to think of shooting as "fun."

I have talked to a number of people who are just plain disgusted with the amount of carnage these local children are making. Not only are they enraged by the loss of their pets and/or windows, they are quite afraid that they themselves or the children will be the next to be shot. The possibility of a human being hurt is high. These children are not trained to use a gun, they obviously don't have the responsible attitudes necessary to use one, and if they think shooting the neighborhood dog is "fun," what might their next "fun" target be?

The parents of these children need to be more responsible. How is it that they allow their rifles to be taken out of the house by 11- and 12-year-olds when everyone knows hunting rifles should be kept under lock and key; not only to keep the children safe from accidents but also to ensure the guns don't fall into criminal hands should the house be burglarized.

And as observers, we should also take more responsibility. We need to phone the RCMP as soon as we see an armed child. We need to let these children know that they are breaking the law and can be punished for it.

In Calgary, you hear stories in the media all the time about children being killed with their friends play with guns. Let's hope that this won't be one of the news stories I have to cover anytime soon.

Pen pals wanted

Dear Editor:

It is my great pleasure to write to you. I expect you will be pleased to accept my appeal regarding oversea pen pals for our students.

I am an English teacher in a noted high school in Seoul, Korea. This school has about 2,500 students of both sexes. I am eagerly seeking foreign students who would like to correspond with our students. There are many Korean students who want to exchange letters and friendship with foreign pen friends, and they frequently request me to let them have foreign pen friends.

Throughout my foreign language teaching career, I've noticed this would help not only their English and emotional life, but also expand their knowledge of foreign lands. This would also promote world-wide friendship and mutual relationship as well as serving as a true foundation of world peace.

I feel it is necessary to publish this simple wish among the boys and girls of the world. Therefore, I courteously request you to run this letter in a corner of your valuable paper.

The only information I need of a student is his or her name, address, age, sex, hobbies and picture if possible.

I expect to receive many letter from your readers wishing to correspond with our students. (Welcome group or class request!)

I will appreciate it very much if you let me have the chance to do this for my students. This would be a warm and thoughtful favor. Awaiting good news, I remain.

Yours sincerely,
Miss Park Myeong Shim

Tax system ruinous

Dear Editor:

Although the swimming pool project was promoted as a wonderful thing for the town, the recent plebiscite, which carried by a vote of only 62%, shows that many people were opposed, and undoubtedly for good reasons.

Just this spring a large number of people met with County officials at Harmattan to express their serious concerns about the increase in taxes. Those of us who are still in the real world can see that with rapidly rising debt and taxes, and with continuing bankruptcies of farms and businesses (some long established) the economy is in very poor condition and the future does not look bright.

There was a significant increase in Town of Didsbury taxes this year and even the first phase of this pool project will increase the burden markedly. There are other considerations too: construction costs are often underestimated so could be greater; there will be a large ongoing operating cost, much of which is charged to taxes; additions to the facility are planned; and, last but not least, because we benighted people are still cursed with an impossible monetary system, in which money comes into existence as an interest-bearing debt, taxpayers will be forced to pay for this costly project several times over. No matter how attractive the pool, prospective residents may indeed decide to look for a less costly location once they have investigated the town's tax situation.

For people who lose jobs or who can't demand increased salaries to cover rising costs, a time comes when they've reached the bottom of the barrel and if the mortgage can't be paid,

GOVERNMENT NEWS

Public input shapes new environmental protection legislation

Hon. Roy Brassard, MLA
Olds-Didsbury Constituency

The Province of Alberta reaffirmed its commitment to the protection, enhancement and wise use of Alberta's environment with the re-introduction of Bill 23: The Alberta Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act. Environment Minister Ralph Klein first introduced this proposed legislation in June 1991. After two years of consultation with Albertans, the re-introduction of this proposed legislation is an integral measure to ensure that the commitment to protect our environment is practiced by government, business and individuals.

The proposed Alberta Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act is a consolidation of nine existing environmental acts and is the result of 28 months of work. This integrated and streamlined approach to legislation will yield more effective environmental laws for Alberta to ensure that Albertans are prepared to meet the environmental pressures facing the province in this decade and beyond. This comprehensive legislation will also contribute to greater intergovernmental co-operation on environmental issues and will enable Alberta to fulfill its constitutional responsibilities for the management of our environment within the province.

Highlights of the legislation include provisions to establish a legislated and clarified environmental impact assessment process (EIA); to increase public consultation and participation at all levels of environmental protection; to allow for the introduction of market-based approaches like tradeable emission permits and recycling incentives; to address the clean-up of contaminated sites; and to ensure that corporate officers, directors, provincial and municipal officials are responsible for environmental offences. In short, this Act is a necessary measure that requires polluters to look after the problems they create while protecting against the hazards of potential pollution in the future.

This Act has been drafted in a manner that responds to the issues and concerns raised by Albertans and represents an environmental bill of rights for the long term benefit of Alberta. Alberta has taken a leadership role in the environmental field and this legislation moves us in a direction that advocates responsibility on the part of all users for the preservation and enhancement of our environment.

If you would like further information on the Alberta Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act please contact Alberta Environment at 1-800-661-5586 or contact me at our constituency office at 556-3132 or my Edmonton Office at 422-0141 (collect).

MP's column

By Louise Feltham, MP
Wild Rose Constituency

Since the last election the Federal Government has met its financial goal producing an operating surplus every year! The tough actions which have been taken to restrain the growth of program spending have, to a large extent, been responsible for the surplus. The year which ended March 31, 1992 is projected to have a $10+ billion operating surplus.

This is significant. Listen to someone who knows what they are talking about! Listen to someone with the economic facts! Listen to someone with no political axe to grind!

The International Monetary Fund (IMF), the Organization

for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), and the Asian Development Bank do not make statements to suit politicians. They study the facts and they produce reports for the International Financial Community. They all have applauded the financial measures taken by the Government of Canada and predict a strong Canadian economy in 1992-93.

The ultimate target of the Government Financial Policy is the elimination of the national debt. The legacy of the $200 billion debt and the compounded yearly interest has been a burden for all taxpayers.

That ol' bird made Willard look up.

I heard it from Willard myself.
Seems he was relocating an irrigation pipe one day.
He was lifting it pretty high.
That brought him to the attention of this ol' bird sitting on a power line.

Now, this bird started squawkin' and flappin' his wings.
It seems a pipe was coming perilously close to his perch on the line. Willard paid the bird no mind.

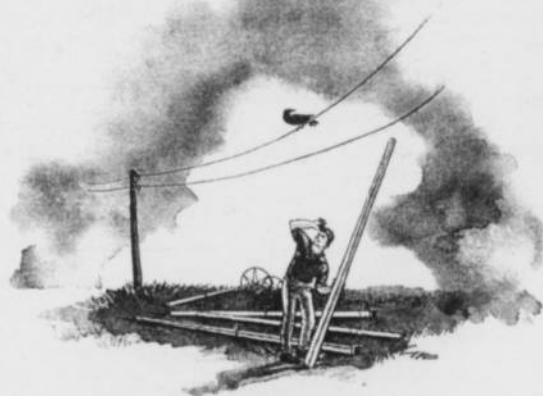

Well, Willard kept lifting and the bird kept squawkin'.
Finally, the bird figured it had to make Willard look up the best way it knew how.

Ruined a perfectly good cap.

It wasn't a pretty sight.
Darn sight prettier than it could've been though, because Willard realized, right there and then, how close he was coming to hitting a wire with a pipe.

Yup, that ol' bird made Willard look up.
Looking up may have just saved Willard's life.

The best way to avoid an electrical accident when checking or moving irrigation pipes is to avoid power lines altogether. If you are working near overhead lines, please, look up and live. The people at your local TransAlta Utilities office are glad to help. For more information please drop by or give us a call.

they're out. The same can be said about taxes—people own their homes only as long as they can keep paying the taxes on them. It is alarming to note that even on this continent, so richly endowed with natural resources, an increasing number of people are becoming homeless.

Having said all that, I would like to make the point that in a truly just society the will of the majority should not be exercised to force the minority to pay for something that is not essential, particularly if it involves going into debt. This is where our system of democracy fails, if it is not checked by a constitution that protects the rights of individuals.

As anybody can see, unrestrained socialism combined with the debt-money system is ruinous to a country. Even more serious than the mounting debt and taxes are the attitudes and expectations that develop over the years—that taxpayers should pay for everything whether essential or not, whether public or not, and whether it can be afforded or not. Such a system encourages irresponsibility and discourages responsibility as incentive to work and save are destroyed. Those who want facilities for culture, recreation and sports should take responsibility for the costs of same; people who don't want them have other uses for their money. We note that over 15% of the town's municipal spending is already devoted to recreation and culture and this upcoming facility will certainly increase that percentage. Anybody who thinks public spending can continue to escalate in the face of diminishing incomes should remove their rose-colored glasses so they can see reality.

Some believe that expensive leisure facilities are essential to keep children out of mischief. But despite all the public money spent to provide such, the crime rate is increasing rapidly. After the recent fatal stabbing in a Calgary schoolyard, the young people interviewed suggested that the problems of juveniles could be reduced if parents spent more time with their children. However, since over half of income now goes for taxes, in many families both parents must work long hours just to make ends meet. It appears that the quality of family life deteriorates as public spending increases.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Robert H. Ross

PERSONALITIES

Local takes provincial music award

By Janice Harrington

Move over Mozart! Didsbury has its own answer to the wunderkind.

Kory Simon, a 12-year-old student at Westglen, managed to steal the show at the Provincial Music Festival earlier this month with a song he composed on his own.

Simon was one of 22 groups and individuals who went on to compete in the provincial festival based on recommendations from judges at the Olds Kiwanis Music Festival.

Simon, who has been taking music lessons for 3 years, wrote the piece he entered in the competition when he was 10-years-old.

"I was just fiddling with the piano one day and it sounded kind of cool," Simon said.

His music teacher, Stephanie Kersell of Olds said she discovered by accident that her student had composed a piece and decided to use this interest to teach him about technique.

"He caught on very, very quickly," she said. "It's the only one Kory has written down so far, but we are working on others."

The composition written by Simon is entitled Triumph and is a modern instrumental for piano. It won top prize for creative music age 12 and under.

Other winners at the provincial festival were the Hugh Sutherland High School Band who took the level three concert band trophy, Sarah Graham, who placed 2nd in Musical Theater age 16 and under, and Marliss Weber who also placed 2nd in speech solo for age 16 and under.

We have to look at agriculture from a broader perspective. What happens within the agri-food sector is important to Canada's future. The industry generates about $50 billion in sales every year. Directly and indirectly, it is responsible for one in seven jobs. It accounts for 10% of our exports.

That is why we have developed a comprehensive strategy to take Canadian agriculture into the next century.

This is not simply a federal agenda. Through the National Agri-food Policy Review, men and women throughout the industry have been involved hands-on in figuring out how the sector can be more flexible, market-responsive and self-reliant in order to survive.

It's a strategy that is producing results: more effective farm income safety net programs improved pesticide regulations, the Agri-food Competitiveness Council, a national farm business management program, and progress on environmentally sustainable farming practices.

Agriculture matters

MEETING THE CHALLENGES OF THE 1990s

By Bill McKnight

Canadian Minister of Agriculture

Can Canadian agriculture continue to meet the challenges of the 1990s?

That's a question I am frequently asked by farmers and others with a stake in the future of the sector. People want to know if our agri-food industry will be able to keep up with changes in the marketplace, with increased competition around the world, with technological advances and with the demands of today's economy.

The short answer is yes. Farmers have been adapting for decades.

The longer answer is that there are a lot of things farmers, industry and the federal and provincial governments must do, individually and together, to ensure that agriculture remains competitive and prosperous.

The fact is that farmers today have to cope with more

Looking back as we say goodbye

The Mountain View Bible College ended its 66 year reign in the Town of Didsbury last month to move on to a bigger and better phase in Calgary. The move has left a vacancy in the hearts of many Didsbury residents who have fond memories of the college. For them we present this look back at the college's history.

Alvin Traub was considered a visionary by the Christian people of Didsbury. As early as 1920, he decided Alberta needed a place for training Christian people and felt Didsbury was the place to do it. By 1926, he got permission from others in his church to raise funds to construct a building to hold Bible classes, but no one actually thought he could raise the money in the small community.

They were wrong. Within 4 weeks he had managed to gather together over $5,000 in cash and pledges. Construction on what is now known as Traub Hall began on August 27, 1926, but only with permission to build half of his original plan. Undaunted by the "unbelievers," Traub finished the building and opened the Mountain View Bible School on November 11, 1926. The school only managed to grow from there despite fears the community would not be able to support it. The second half of Mr. Traub's building was finished in 1936.

Support for the college was always strong. The Missionary Church, individual churches, alumni and their families have made the difference over the life of Mountain View Bible College. The creation of the King's Kettle also made a difference. It was developed in 1956 as a fundraising program in which people bought $100 shares in a cow, housed it at a local farm and shared profits from the produce of the animal with the college (the shareholder got their $100 back). One year, the college managed to raise close to $36,000 with this program. The program continues to exist and will become part of the new college.

The purpose of the school has always been the same: to teach lay people how to become more effective in their local church. The basic courses have been taught right from the beginning with some new, more modern approaches thrown in along the way. Education at the college had two focuses, one was to prepare students for the ministry and the second to foster pastoral leadership in the local area and in the mission field.

Through the years, the college's curriculum has expanded from a 2-year course to a 3-year diploma and a 4-year Bachelor of Religious Education degree with majors in Bible, Christian Education, Missions, Church Music/Christian Education and Pastoral Studies. Students from the college have gone on to seminary, the mission field, education and to be strong leaders in their local churches.

The college has always run privately, without government support. Today's college leaders say they were always surprised at how the college managed to survive within such a small constituency. But the support of Didsbury and the churches has always been a serious part of the college. The town supported the college not only financially, but in other ways as well. The college enjoyed wonderful cooperation with the municipality as well as with the local businesses.

Next week, The Didsbury Review will report about where the college is going now, its new role as a merged college in Calgary and what is happening with the land they are leaving behind.

Education put to work in new business

Suzanne Alexander believes everything you learn in school should have a purpose... a fact she's banking on to help her find success in her new cleaning business, "Suzy's Enterprises."

Virtually every aspect of cleaning, from dusting to washing floors, to lemon oiling wood (and, yes, even windows) is taken care of when Alexander takes on a contract. "It depends, really on each individual need, but I'll even do a bit of yardwork, if my client needs it taken care of, as long as it's nothing too major."

Being thorough is nothing new to Alexander. After taking in some accounting, computer, and business courses at Olds College, she decided to literally put what she learned to work by being her own entrepreneur. "After I got out of college in April I knew I had to get a job for the summer anyways, so I figured starting up my own business would be the best experience around and look good on a resume afterwards too," Alexander says.

At work for herself now for nearly two months, Alexander says she's definitely made the right decision and is anxious to continue expanding her clientele. "I'm out there all the time trying to get the word around about Suzy's... I go around to businesses--sometimes door-to-door--and give out free T-shirts to the elderly at the Evergreen Centre during some of their functions. It's really an on-going effort to keep marketing yourself and letting people know that you're available."

Marketing, financial and service-related challenges aside, Alexander considers the human aspect of her job to offer by far the most valuable experience. "You go into someone's home and you automatically get to know them and their needs. It's a great feeling to be able to help those who need your services."

Contamination causes investigation

By Janice Harrington

Mercury found in one of the producing wells at the Shell Caroline plant site is causing some changes to be made in construction.

Shell spokesperson Adrianne Lamb said some minor modifications will need to take place at the plant to deal with the mercury found in the 8 of 1 well at the north end of the Caroline field.

"At this point we have gone to some overseas facilities to see how they deal with this and learn from them," Lamb said. "And we are doing more testing to see what form the mercury is in so we can find out what method to use to filter it from the raw gas."

Lamb said testing for mercury is rarely done but components of the plant made the search necessary.

"Research has shown that mercury could corrode aluminum and that is a large component of our plant. But normally we would not test for mercury," she said.

Mercury is a highly poisonous substance which occurs naturally. Lamb said the tests have indicated a 100-200 part per billion trace in the gas.

"Because it is such a low level it doesn't pose a health hazard," she said.

Modifications to the first of its kind gas plant will have to be made to deal with the mercury presence. Lamb said a special filtering process will be installed at the well site and other precautions for disposing the mercury will be added to the plant site.

The modifications are not expected to impact on the project's construction deadline.

Highway death under investigation

By Janice Harrington

Sundre RCMP are continuing to investigate the death of an Eagle Hill man after an accident near Sundre last week.

Bartley Neil Blaine, age 21, was found dead in the early morning hours of June 11 after his car was spotted in a ditch by a passing motorist on Highway 27, 4 km. east of Sundre.

Sundre RCMP said the car had been travelling eastbound on the highway when it drove off the road into the north ditch. Blaine was the only occupant of the car. The exact cause of Blaine's death as well as the nature of the accident are still under investigation. An autopsy is being performed in Calgary and is expected to give more answers.

Weather and road conditions are not considered to be a factor in the accident.

Christian concert scheduled

Celebrating their 25th anniversary world tour, The CONTINENTALS will present a concert of contemporary Christian music on Tuesday, June 30, 7:00 p.m. at the Missionary Church in Didsbury.

Featuring 25 vocalists with live instrumentation, The CONTINENTALS' program will include an exciting variety of popular inspirational and gospel favorites. These energetic young people will uplift, challenge and encourage audiences of all ages as they present their 1992 program, YES! Let's Go.

In addition to majestic anthems, spirituals and children's songs, the program will recognize the many contributions of some of the top gospel songwriters of the last 25 years.

"I am very excited about this year's anniversary program," said Jim Chaffee, executive vice president of The CONTINENTALS. "The audience will not only experience songs that have had a lasting positive influence over the last quarter century, but also music that is continuing to shape gospel music today."

All of the young people who are part of The CONTINENTALS are carefully selected from among thousands who audition annually from around the world. The program is then fine-tuned during an intensive 9-day rehearsal camp in Denver, Colorado, before each group heads out for an approximate 3-month tour

Blood donor clinic held

By Helen Brown

The annual Red Cross blood donor clinic sponsored by the Hospital Volunteers was held Tuesday, June 9 from 3-7 p.m. Attendance was lower this year with 98 persons processed and 84 units of blood collected.

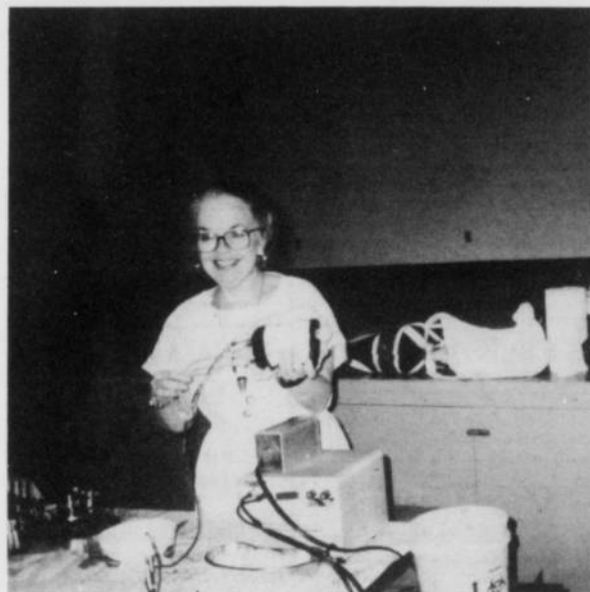

Supervisor of Volunteers for the blood clinics, Mary Sicotte, says that organizing the clinics is becoming more and more difficult while the demand for blood is more urgent all the time.

The Hospital Volunteers take care of the publicity, the phoning, and registering while local retired nurses attend to the donors after they have made their donation. Volunteers were in attendance this year to care for any children needing entertainment.

The raisin bread for the lunch served by the volunteers was donated by Mountain View Bakery and the cheese was donated by the Neapolis Cheese Factory.

Staff at the Memorial Complex helped with setting up the beds and the equipment and volunteers from the Elks assisted with the dismantling.

Life source

A technician from the Red Cross mobile blood donor clinic holds a fresh donation of blood made last week in Didsbury. 96 donors came to give blood with 88 units being accepted. Over 100 units of blood need to be collected to make the mobile clinic worthwhile.

Province to fund major paving project

Alberta Transportation and Utilities will provide funding for a major road paving project in the Olds-Didsbury area, Minister of Transportation and Utilities Al "Boomer" Adair and Olds-Didsbury M.L.A. Roy Brassard announced last week.

The project involves the following types of work on Secondary Highway 766:

- grading and sealed base from the south boundary of the County of Mountain View for 4.9 km. to the north.

- sealed base construction from west of the Little Red Deer River for 3.2 km. to the County of Mountain View north boundary.

- seal coating from north of the county boundary for 6.4 km.

to the junction of Secondary Highway 580.

Adair said: "Scheduled for completion this summer, this project will be funded by the Government of Alberta but tendered and administered by the County of Mountain View through its consulting engineers."

Brassard said: "It's good to see the province and the county working together to provide improved transportation facilities for the people of the Olds-Didsbury area. This project will bring these sections up to modern paved standard and make them stronger and safer for all drivers."

Lower interest rates improve housing affordability

Average renters* looking to buy are having an easier time as a greater proportion of the available resale housing market is now more affordable, according to an article in Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation's (CMHC) Canadian Housing Markets report, released last month.

"Lower interest rates have reduced carrying costs and increased the range of resale housing available to the average renter," said Pip White, CMHC's Market Analyst, Affordability.

The largest supply and choice of resale homes available are found in the Prairie and Atlantic regions, where house prices are lower compared to other provinces. The number of resale units available ranges from 54.8% in Calgary to 86.6% in Saskatoon. Most renters could afford to buy some form of single detached house in these areas.

In most Quebec centres average renters can afford almost two-thirds of the supply which includes a wide selection of single detached houses. Although lower interest rates have resulted in improved access to a larger portion of the market, access remains the lowest in British Columbia because of relatively high house prices. Choices in Vancouver and Victoria are limited to some form of multiple unit and less than 20% of the supply is affordable.

In Ontario, most areas offer potential homeowners a choice of units. Less expensive cities such as Windsor and Thunder Bay present the largest supply and range of housing options in the province. In Toronto, where house prices are the highest, renters have a smaller supply to choose from, mainly condominium apartments or townhouses.

Another article in Canadian Housing Markets outlines the best ways of minimizing mortgage costs. The biggest saving can be realized by paying half the monthly payment bi-weekly which provides the borrower with the equivalent of one extra monthly payment each year.

*The average renter is defined as being in the private rental market, aged 20 to 44, with sufficient income to potentially buy a home.

Bergthal Mennonite Church news

By Erna Goergen

A celebration for Pastor Norman Bergen and his wife Irma was held Sunday, May 31, 1992 at Bergthal Mennonite Church, Didsbury, Alberta. It commemorated their retirement from 36 years of formal ministry in six congregations in Canada and the United States, their 40th wedding anniversary and the farewell from B.M.C. The Bergens plan to retire at the end of June and take up residence in Langham, Sask. Guests had arrived from Washington, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and from various points in Alberta.

David Braun, Conference Pastor, gave a morning message on Psalm 84. It is a pilgrim song of longing for the dwelling place of the Lord and of trust in the Lord God of Hosts. Choir singing and a solo by Vernon Neufeld, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwelling Places" enhanced the service.

In the afternoon a program of joyful celebration featured music and song. Formal greetings were presented from churches and conferences. After an attractive fellowship lunch, the sharing continued with light-hearted skits, story-telling and informal comments from participants. The church's gift to the Bergens was a picture done by local artist Dave Epp.

In closing, the Bergens expressed their appreciation for the love and support received at Bergthal Mennonite Church and at the other places where they served, as well as for the celebration at the end of their service.

Bruce Wiebe has accepted the position of pastor at B.M.C. beginning August 1, 1992. He and his wife Noreen have one son, Terrell.

Retirement celebrated

Pastor Norman Bergen and his wife Irma were given a celebration last month to commemorate their retirement from the ministry.

Visiting minister to speak

Travelling ministry

The Rev. Olu Peters of Nigeria will be speaking at the Didsbury Missionary Church on June 21. His next stop on his ministry tour will be at the James River family camp.

Rev. Olu Peters of Illorin, Nigeria, will be the guest speaker at Didsbury Missionary Church on Sunday, June 21st at 7 p.m.

At present Rev. Peters is the pastor of an English speaking congregation with an average attendance of 1,500 adults and about 1,000 children. He received his Master of Theology degree from Regent College, Vancouver, B.C. and his Master of Divinity degree from Ontario Theological Seminary, Toronto. Rev. Peters has a rich background in experiences including ministry as a Bible teacher at the theological college in Illorin, a church planter, a counsellor and as an evangelist/conference speaker in many settings.

In this special service, Rev. Peters will give his personal testimony and exciting news of how God is using Nigerians to reach their own people at relatively little or no cost but in simply the dedicated giving of their time with extra effort. The message he will bring us will be relevant and challenging to our Canadian churches.

There is no cost for this event but a love offering will be taken to help cover some of the expenses incurred with Rev. Peter's ministry tour.

Rev. Peters will also be the camp guest speaker at James River Family Camp, June 26th through July 5th. He will be speaking each evening in a 7 p.m. rally.

In loving memory of a dear husband who was tragically killed June 14, 1991. In loving memory of John Monsma. "One precious to our hearts has gone The voice we loved is stilled. The place made vacant in our lives. Can never more be filled. Always a thought and many a tear, For the one we miss and loved so dear. The sudden way you had to die We shall always remember and wonder why. No one can know the sorrow we share When the family meets and you're not there. We hold our tears when we speak your name. But the ache is our hearts remains the same."

When young adults leave home for more education or their first job, how well prepared are they to take care of themselves? Can they clean a home and keep it that way? Do they know how to shop for and cook healthy foods? Are they able to manage (budget) their income? If the answer to these questions is yes, then they are released from the extra time it takes to learn these things when time is needed to concentrate on studies, career or other areas of living. Mary Ellen Norgard, D.H.E. at Oyen, shares these tips to help your child develop living skills.

In his book, "401 Ways to Get Your Kids to Work at Home," Monson McCullough writes: "As a parent, there are ways to prepare your child for the Big World whether they are 2 or 22. During the eighteen years or so a child is in your home, you will be doing lots of things and going many places, so why not get full value from these experiences through goal setting, and plan your activities to provide the maximum instructional benefit for your children? The child's accomplishment of skills will improve self-image and give the confidence on which to build even more skills. Independent children can bounce back from crises and move forward while dependent children are more vulnerable to problems that can ruin their lives. You, the parent, will enjoy many rewards too: your sense of success develops, the workload is shared, and the child will be working with you rather than against you. Setting these goals will create more time for the parent and child to enjoy other things in life."

When teaching your child

new skills:

1. Break the job down into small manageable parts.
2. Thoroughly show and tell each part of the job.
3. Offer encouragement and appreciation. A child who thinks she can, can. Avoid the "do it or else" situation.

4. Keep work periods short and successful.

5. Stay with your child as he works until he has successfully completed a chore three different times on separate days.

6. Let your child take part in learning fun skills, not just cleaning tasks--decorating a cake, planning games for a birthday party, arranging flowers, etc.

Work Motivators - If you are teaching young children to pick up their toys and clothes, here are some ideas to make the task more fun:

1. Wind up one another and pretend to be work robots.

2. Wind up a music box and see how much can be picked up before the music stops.

3. Use child size shopping carts to pick up toys and pretend to be buying them at the store. Set up a cash register in the child's bedroom.

4. Have the child put away 10 items in a room and then ask the parent to guess what was put away.

5. Parent can act as Toy Catcher, putting misplaced toys in the Toy Pound. To free a toy, child must pay the fine by doing a special job for parent.

Children are wonderful. They bring joy, frustration, laughter, tears and so much more. Being a parent is scary, though. We have such power over their lives and the people they will become. We need to do our best to love them, spend time with them and let them know they make our lives complete. It will pay off in spades.

Didsbury Elks news

Our meeting of June 11, 1992 went quite well. Our past Provincial President Bob Larson was in attendance. He came and presented Earl Phillips with a certificate of merit for 20 years of service as a patrol member.

Our district campout location has been moved to Dinton Hall Corner, approximately 24 km. east of Alderside Service Station on secondary road 547. It will still be held on July 10, 11, 12.

All members are asked to come out to the Canada Day celebration and are asked to wear regalia as we will be displaying flags. Also don't forget that June 20, 1992 is our Windup Steakfry. All members wishing to attend, please call Bill Ward. He would like to know how many steaks to have ready.

The Elks van raffle winners were from Red Deer and Ponoka.

Alberta Elks raised over $200,000.00.

Didsbury Elks Lodge #514 won the Fraternal Elk this year this year, also our very own Bill Ward is Inner Guard for provincial this year. Good show, Bill.

Attention all members who haven't paid their dues yet, time is running out. All dues "Must" be paid by the end of this month. That's only 2 weeks away. You better hurry—we don't want to lose any members. Also, after second thoughts, the lounge will not be open Friday nights until September. Sorry for getting your hopes up.

Our next meeting will be June 26, 1992. This will be an installation meeting and will be the last one until September. Be there or be square.
